

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A NAND type semiconductor device is disclosed, in which a first insulating film embedded between the memory cell gates and between the memory cell gates and the selecting gate does not contain nitrogen as a major component, a second insulating film is formed on the first insulating film, and an interlayer insulating film is formed on the second insulating film whose major component is different from a major component of the second insulating film.